Admissions
To be considered for admission to the College, all applicants must have graduated from an accredited secondary or postsecondary school OR earned a state high school equivalency diploma. No additional admission requirements exists for the Concentration beyond the standard policies for admission available for review in the College Course Catalog.

Specific Costs Associated with the Concentration in Nutrition and Food Service Management.
In addition to tuition, there are various other expenses that students may encounter such as books which are estimated at $2400 for the program, room and board fees should student choose to live on campus, health documents, and potential internship related costs.

College health requirements include proof of immunization against mumps, measles, rubella, and varicella. Resident students must also provide proof of immunization against meningitis. Nutrition students are required to provide proof of physical exam, annual PPD, and proof of immunization against tetanus.

Additional health documentation, drug testing, and background checks may be required by an internship site. These costs vary. Liability insurance is provided by the college. Students must provide their own transportation to assigned internship sites, and a lab jacket or uniform may be required. Membership in the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics is optional but recommended.

*Financial Aid, as well as the availability of scholarships should be discussed with a representative from the Financial Aid Office. In addition, students in the concentration may be eligible to apply for scholarships awarded by the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (A.N.D). You must be a member of the A.N.D. to apply.